Kang Chuan-Cheng, Associate Professor, General Education Center, Far East University
Chang Chung-Chih, Associate Professor, General Education Center, Far East University
Chuang Kuei-Ying, Instructor, General Education Center, Far East University

Abstract

The Yi-ology was very prosperous in the Qing Dynasty, a large number of books and articles were written. Besides meaning-pattern, image-numberology and science of book, the category of Yi-ology had two characteristics yet. One was following the way of Yi-ology in the Song Dynasty, and then turning into a counteraction against the Buchwissenschaft in the Song Dynasty. The representatives in this period were Gu Yan-wu, Huang Zong-xi, Huang Zong-yan, Mao Qi-ling, Hu Wei etc. The other was that the study of Classical Yi-ology became the mainstream, the representatives were Hui Dong, Zhang Hui-yan, Jiao Xun, Yao Pei-zhong etc. In this thesis, the two characteristics have been analyzed and discussed, in order to explore the developing process of the Yi-ology in the Qing Dynasty explicitly.

Keyword: Qing Dynasty, The Yi-ology, characteristics, Classical Yi-ology